

Ogden Tuberculosis Dispensary to Open At City Hall Monday

MISS IDA M. SWARTZ, former nurse with the British army in France, who will direct the new Ogden tuberculosis dispensary which opens tomorrow.

Miss Ida M. Swartz to Be in Charge of Work Combating White Plague in Northern Utah

The new Ogden tuberculosis dispensary will swing open its doors at 9 o'clock tomorrow, marking the advent of the Ogden board of health in an entirely new field and placing the department on an efficiency basis with the best health departments of the country for a city of Ogden's size. The new department, which is expected to accomplish much here in the fight against the great white plague, has been made possible through the Utah Public Health association, under whose direction Miss Ida Swartz' department will work, and J. Ray Ward, commissioner of public safety.

Ward Co-operates

When the Utah Public Health association sought the Ogden field as a probable place in which to direct its fight against tuberculosis in northern Utah, the association was given the immediate co-operation of Mr. Ward, who offered space for the installation of the tuberculosis dispensary in quarters occupied by the Ogden board of health in the city. Mr. Ward's offer was immediately accepted and largely through his efforts a decision was forthcoming and Ogden awarded the bureau.

The aims and purpose of the tuberculosis dispensary as outlined, are to wage intensive warfare against the growth and spread of tuberculosis in Ogden and vicinity and to furnish free medical examination, aid and information to persons who are afflicted with the disease and are without funds to provide the proper medical care and attention. A feature of the work will be in the visits of Miss Swartz to various homes where the patients are in such condition they are unable to leave their beds.

During the visits to Ogden homes, Miss Swartz will carry on a campaign of education which is expected to accomplish much in combating the disease and curbing its spread. Miss Swartz will be at the call of all persons who seek aid or information and will conduct examinations without charge in the department dispensary. It was announced yesterday by Miss Swartz that the department will open tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and will be open to the public every Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week, between the hours of 9 o'clock and 12 o'clock. Persons who seek aid in their homes may call the department at any time and arrange for a visit of Miss Swartz.

In announcing the opening of the new department, Mr. Ward has urged that physicians throughout the city lend their co-operation by reporting to the bureau all cases of tuberculosis which they may discover. In this manner a complete record may be kept by the city board of health and the conditions determined without extensive surveys.

It was also made manifest by Mr. Ward that the co-operation of the Ogden public is necessary to make the new department successful, not only through those suffering from the disease asking for aid, but in others reporting cases which they may discover in their neighborhood. The department is free to anyone who may seek advice or help in the tuberculosis fight and persons are urged to take full advantage in order that the disease may quickly be stamped out from Ogden.

Miss Swartz is a woman of several years' experience in health work and for more than two years was with the British armies in France as a nurse at the battle front. She is a graduate of the Medico-Chirurgical hospital of Philadelphia and the Philadelphia school of philanthropy.

OGDEN BOY HELD BY L. A. POLICE

Juvenile Court Officers Reveal Circumstances of His Life at Home

Vernal Dean, 16 year old Ogden boy arrested in Los Angeles yesterday and held on a charge of issuing fraudulent checks and running up a big hotel bill without funds, is the son of John Chester Dean of 259 Thirtieth street.

The boy's history as an alleged check forger commenced about a year ago and in September of last year he was brought before Judge Dan E. Sullivan of the Juvenile Court to answer charges of fraudulently issuing checks. On inquiry into the boy's home conditions and on recommendation of two well known citizens Dean was given suspended sentence and his father brought into court to answer complaint of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The father is a pay clerk at the Southern Pacific shops where the boy worked as a helper, and, according to Juvenile Court officials the father was in the habit of withholding the son's pay check and depositing it in his own private account. On one occasion, it is said, the men in the shops subscribed to buy the boy a new pair of overalls which story the father denies.

The father promised to make good the boy's bad checks, but he has never done so, says Judge Sullivan, and he will be called into Juvenile Court Tuesday for further investigation in to the criminal career of his son.
